YOUR GIFTS ARE CHANGING LIVES

The cover of this year's Annual Report and Honor Roll of Donors features a few of the many students and professors who have benefited directly from scholarships and professorships made possible by donors like you.

The promise of our students and the excellence of our faculty are enhanced immeasurably by every gift received by the UCF Foundation. We offer our sincere thanks for your support and involvement, which have literally changed thousands of lives for the better.

Your gifts for scholarships, professorships, programs and unrestricted purposes have created a highly attractive educational experience for students and helped to make the University of Central Florida one of the 10 largest universities in the nation. Student demand for a place at UCF has never been stronger. Not only was our fall 2004 enrollment a record, but our incoming freshman class had the highest SAT scores and high school grade point averages in the university's history. Since we graduated our first class in 1970, your support has helped UCF to award more than 140,000 degrees, including over 25,000 graduate degrees in master's and doctoral programs. In the 40 years of its existence UCF has moved from promise to prominence and truly come of age.

On our cover are some of the people whose study and teaching are enhanced by the generosity of donors, and inside are stories about gifts that have raised the level of educational excellence at the university. In addition, all donors with gifts of $100 or more are recognized in the honor roll section. You will also find the UCF Foundation's financial results. Our endowment exceeded $70 million at the end of fiscal year 2004, bolstered by a 17.3% investment return that recovered much of the decline that occurred in fiscal years 2001 and 2002. The contribution of new endowment gifts totaling more than $9 million made last year a stellar one for the Foundation.

We hope that you find this information interesting and inspiring. With deep gratitude to you, we move forward together to enhance UCF's standing as an institution of the highest academic quality and, in turn, to make the world a better place.

Renderings of the FAIRWINDS Alumni Center, now under construction

HOME SWEET HOME

More than 125,000 people have graduated from UCF, and soon they will have a building on campus to call their own: the FAIRWINDS Alumni Center. The center will be a place where alumni and friends can always feel at home on an ever-changing UCF campus.

"The building will give alumni a way to stay connected to their alma mater," said Mike Manglardi '84, chairman of the alumni center building campaign. "You're a student for a few years, but you're an alumnus for the rest of your life."

Non-academic buildings do not receive state funding, so Manglardi and his committee took up the challenge to raise the funds privately. FAIRWINDS Credit Union gave the naming gift, and members of the UCF Foundation Board of Directors spearheaded the drive to name the John and Martha Hitt Library after UCF's reigning first family.

Naming the building's lobby in memory of Pete Fisher and Jimmy Ferrell touched the hearts of former Academic Peer Advisors and Orientation Team members, and alumni came forward with enthusiasm, including Linda '86 and Keith '86 Flannery.

"Pete and Jimmy were those teachers from whom you learned so much, yet they never actually gave you a grade," said Linda. "The programs they ran focused on teamwork, team building, self-awareness and helping others, and the programs worked so well because of these two men."

Other donations at all levels paved the way for a ballroom, conference rooms, individual offices and more, including an endowment to help fund center operations and an ongoing brick paver program. When the FAIRWINDS Alumni Center opens in fall 2005, it will showcase what can happen when people band together to make a dream become a reality.

UCF DONOR HIGHLIGHTS 2003—2004

Vivian Woods and Muffin

A LEGACY OF CARING

Vivian Woods always did her part to make the world a better place. She and her beloved dog, Muffin, were involved in programs in which interaction with animals lifted the spirits of those in hospitals and nursing homes. Because she often was in health care facilities, Woods knew firsthand how good care enhanced the well-being of patients. With that in mind, several years ago she established the Barry and Vivian Woods Endowed Scholarship in UCF's College of Health and Public Affairs to assist students in the School of Nursing. The scholarship was in memory of her late husband, Barry. Woods was so dedicated to her work with patients in need that when she was to be recognized for her gift, she did not attend the event because she and Muffin were scheduled to work with a patient in a local hospital that evening.

Vivian Woods died in 2002, and her desire to help those in need of excellent medical care lived on through her estate. A trust established in her will added more than $100,000 this past year to the Barry and Vivian Woods Endowed Scholarship Fund. That gift will be enhanced by State of Florida matching funds so that many deserving nursing students will be able to join the health care field. Through the endowed scholarship she built both during her lifetime and through her estate, Vivian Woods leaves a legacy of caring that will touch the lives of nurses and patients on a permanent basis.

More UCF nursing students will be able to study in labs like this one thanks to Vivian Woods' generosity.

The Engineering III Building is slated to open in fall 2005.

BUILDING SUCCESS

Welbro Building Corporation has been in Central Florida for 25 years. Although branded with a hospitality edge, Steve Davis, president of Welbro, pointed out, "we are a strong contender in the education and commercial market." This is apparent by their long-time support of UCF. They have also provided extensive construction management for the College of Engineering Building II and the Rosen College of Hospitality Management, as well as other campus buildings.

The College of Engineering and Computer Science received a generous commitment from Welbro to support the Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering's Construction Management Program. Welbro's commitment will be the catalyst toward the creation of an endowment for the Construction Engineering Program.

This commitment is a reflection of the value Welbro places on building relationships and giving back to the community. "You are only as good as what you do today," said Davis as he discussed the importance of giving back to the community. "It is the cornerstone of our business."

MAKING MAGIC

When it comes to receiving the best education in sport business management, UCF students already have an edge – they're part of the world-class DeVos Sport Business Management Program, a graduate program in the College of Business Administration.

That edge grew even sharper when The Bob and Cheri Vander Weide Foundation and the Orlando Magic established an endowed scholarship fund. Because it often takes years for an endowment to be fully funded and produce enough interest to provide scholarships, the Vander Weides and the Magic also made a cash gift so scholarships could be awarded immediately. Their generosity provides a tremendous opportunity for students to succeed and make a positive difference in the business of sport management.

"My goal as the DeVos Chair is to have all our students receive scholarship support," said Richard Lapchick, chair of the DeVos Sport Business Management Program. "I shared this with Bob Vander Weide, president and CEO of the Orlando Magic, who immediately started the process that eventually led to the innovative scholarship that combines endowment with current support. The entire DeVos family is committed to our students and this scholarship is yet another example of that commitment. All of us are so grateful to the family for their deep friendship and spiritual support in addition to their amazing financial generosity."

Carrie and John Morgridge

READY TO READ

Knowing how to read is a basic necessity. No two children are alike, however, and some have great difficulty mastering the written word in a regular classroom, despite parental involvement.

Philanthropists John and Carrie Morgridge took an interest in early childhood literacy when their two children were young. They found it a natural fit, since John's mother and grandmother both were teachers. They've supported literacy in public education as well as private schools, and brought their enthusiasm for the subject to Central Florida when they moved from Colorado in 2002.

The Morgridges were impressed with UCF College of Education Dean Sandra Robinson, the college's programs and with FLARE (Florida Literacy and Reading Excellence project), a statewide program housed at the university.

"Robinson has phenomenal vision," Carrie said. "The best practices at UCF get me excited about teaching and education because they understand the whole child and the whole process. It isn't just one program for one child; it's many things together."

The Morgridges have supported the college and FLARE very generously over the past year, and they are proud to be helping the university that trains 22 percent of the state's teachers.

"Under the leadership of John Hitt and guidance of Dean Robinson, I see a long relationship with UCF," Carrie said. "We want to see our money spent wisely, and UCF does a great job of maximizing every penny."

WORLD-CLASS HOSPITALITY

In the heart of the world's most famous tourist destination, UCF students at the Rosen College of Hospitality Management are preparing to become leaders in the hospitality industry. They're creating culinary delights, learning hotel management, exploring the world of travel, honing their theme park skills and planning conventions and golf tournaments at one of the most comprehensive colleges of its kind.

Industry giants such as Walt Disney World, Darden Restaurants, Universal Studios, Marriott, SeaWorld and the Central Florida Hotel and Lodging Association have demonstrated their belief in the college by establishing Academic Excellence Funds.

"These companies see the value of increasing the quality and visibility of our program," said Abe Pizam, dean of the college. "In the future, many of our students will be their employees, so their investment now will benefit them later."

Academic Excellence Funds enable the college to excel beyond what state money alone provides. For instance, they provide student scholarships, finance library purchases and lab equipment, and allow faculty to travel to conferences. The funds are flexible enough to support current needs as well as future needs when they arise.

"We believe the Rosen School can become the crown jewel of hospitality education," said Joe Lee, CEO of Darden Restaurants. "Training new generations of industry leaders in the number one hospitality destination in the world is a perfect marriage of resources."

With support from industry leaders like Lee, Pizam envisions great success. "We're already the second largest hospitality management college in the United States," he said, "and we intend to be the best."

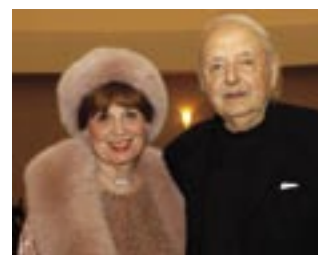

Costumes set the stage in the UCF Conservatory Theatre's production of the drama Three Sisters in 2004.

SETTING THE STAGE

Upon seeing Harriett and Hy Lake at a community event, one might ask "who is that handsome couple?" Harriett has taken fashion seriously since she was 6 years old during the Depression, when she got her first sewing machine. By the time she went to teacher's college in Pennsylvania, she had an extensive wardrobe.

A fashion designer, actress and comic at heart, Harriet has traveled the world with her daughter, Shelley, and served in the Marine Corps in World War II. Not the least of her accomplishments is her philanthropy, which she has bestowed on many of Orlando's educational, arts and other organizations.

Most recently Harriett pledged $500,000 to the College of Arts and Sciences for the UCF Arts II building, which will be the first major upgrade in campus performance space for UCF theater and music in more than 25 years. This gift will be eligible for a state match and through this $1-million gift Harriett and Hy Lake will name the Costume Design Program Area of the Theater Department in Arts II. In addition, Harriet has donated her fabulous wardrobe for UCF Conservatory Theater productions. Costumes make a play come to life, much like Harriett has enlivened Central Florida events with her spirit and enthusiasm.

Harriet and Hy Lake

Alan Gooch '84 and Harry deAntonio '84 reminisce about their days playing football for UCF.

GETTING IN PRACTICE

Harry deAntonio '84 loved playing football for UCF. Despite sharing locker rooms with the baseball team and taking long bus rides to reach opposing team fields, the experience is one he'd never trade.

Today deAntonio is president of Icon Commercial Interests, L.L.C. in Atlanta, where he specializes in structuring and negotiating commercial real estate leases for corporate America. When he found himself doing a lot of work in Florida, his thoughts naturally turned to his alma mater and his friend and former roommate, Alan Gooch '84, executive director of the Golden Knights Club. After a campus visit, deAntonio decided to show his support for the football program by donating $1 million for the specialized practice field inside the new Anthony and Sonja Nicholson Field House. Thanks to his gift, players won't have to practice in substandard conditions or cancel practices due to lightning storms.

"My dedication to the school dates back to seeing a struggling football program come into the spotlight," deAntonio said. "UCF has run under the radar screen for such a long time. Elevating athletics really helps academics more than people understand."

13 YEARS OF LOYALTY

Dr. Carmelo Licitra '77 was 11 years old when he arrived in the United States from Italy. While serving in the Navy in 1973, he moved to Orlando and attended UCF, where he majored in microbiology. He graduated from medical school in 1982, underwent training in internal medicine and then specialized in infectious diseases at Emory University.

College of Health and Public Affairs Building I

Since then, Licitra has practiced infectious diseases and travel medicine in Orlando. For the last few years, he has been included as one of Orlando Magazine's "Best Doctors." "I know that a big factor for my success was the nurturing environment at UCF," he said. "I often think about UCF as I am reminded of how fortunate I am to be practicing my profession."

Last year marked Licitra's 13th consecutive year of giving to the university and the microbiology program. "I encourage alumni to help UCF both financially and by being active in their area of interest," he said. "UCF has provided opportunities to many of us, and it is a way to offer back the opportunity to others. It will also help our academic and medical community."
